It's all thanks to YOU!

Domestic Violence Solutions for Santa Barbara County completed its 46th year in 2023 with new resources and new programs to help survivors across Santa Barbara County.

In a region which already has some of the least affordable housing options in California, we expanded our Housing First program yet again in 2023, making more resources available from both private donations and public sector grants to help DV survivors obtain new transitional and permanent housing. To meet that need, we engaged with Santa Barbara County to find new revenue streams for housing assistance, successfully renewed over $1 million in State grants, and sought out new private funding options for housing.

We doubled the size of our Job & Life Skill training program, providing two full-time staff members dedicated to helping survivors. From job hunting to financial management training, we are helping more survivors become successful, independent people.

And as always, we continued to respond to calls on our crisis line, both from those in need and from our partner agencies in law enforcement and health care. Our staff is ready, 24 hours a day, to connect with survivors and help them begin their recovery.

As we move into 2024, our main goal continues to be expansion of our services. We will expand our clinical counseling services this year, moving to three full-time, licensed clinicians. We will actively look at new facility options, including a new shelter for the North County and more housing options in the South County. And we will continue to meet the needs of DV survivors as we strive toward the ultimate goal – ending Domestic Violence once and for all.

Thanks for everything you've done over the last year – and for the past 46 years – to make DVS what it is. We couldn't have done it without YOU!
